

EXPLAINING
WHY BAD THINGS HAPPEN

(AND GOD DOESN'T INTERFERE)

By A Ghost Trapped in Time

To People,

may they eternally be of benefit to each other.

Look, it works like this. If you voluntarily agree with a proposed measure, and it gets you killed, the people who proposed that measure believe they aren't to be blamed for this death. Because you agreed. Informed or misinformed, that's your task they believe. So they justify themselves in this way.

If you allow things to happen while you've been warned for them, it's in the open, I'm sure all of us have heard the conspiracy theories by now about the vaccine and such, so if you let that happen, it's the same, silent consent. Of it gets you killed, they're not to be blamed, so they believe.

You might find it all inhumane or criminal, but they don't think like that.

They warn you, they allow the other opinion to get to you, and then if you still follow their instructions and advice, you are deemed informed and just too lazy to fight back. In which you condoned. And then it's justified.

To those, if you want others to step up for you, then convince us why we should spend energy into trying to prevent this from happening if you're too lazy to do something yourself.

This situation is going to get more severe and severe until humanity stands up and demands control over their own lives. But for that to happen humanity must first gain control over their own minds.

Also, a life doesn't mean nothing without conscious growth. That's how they justify themselves for letting you die. If you are unconsciously undergoing all of this, there's nothing lost they reason. You had time to get informed, react and object and if you didn't, well, that's a matter of priority I guess and if it's your priority to play video games or Netflix over getting informed then that's your problem. They say thank you for your money, and now it is your time to disappear because we are tired of living amongst these unconscious beings. If we want unconscious beings around us, we'll get some chickens and we can eat their eggs.

You're like those chicken.

This is valid for the vast majority of the population. So if you want to know why all these bad things are happening, it is because we are too self involved with our mundane problems that we lost the overview or simply don't have the time to fight it. But again, that's a matter of priority. It's easy to have an other fight for you or tell you what to believe. But it comes with a cost. And the final cost will be your life.

About dying, now we're at it, forget heaven and hell. That's just been said to make you lead a good life. Before we die, we will remember everything, we will relive our life one more time. That moment can seem to last for eternity and it is your consciousness falling apart and vanishing into space. Your ego is dead. Your personal life is a memory of others. The consciousness gained or lost, that lives on. But without a conscious mind to identify it as its own. As itself. As a unique being that lived and died. That's all gone. That's the darkness you'll encounter when you die. But eternal rest and peace is your reward.
